ABSTRACT

A voice recognition system and method for interactively gathering information to generate a document, form, or application. An applicant establishes voice connection with the system and provides verbal responses to a plurality of verbal questions generated by system to compile a document, form or application.